

Statement from Mike Slubowski, President and CEO of Trinity Health, regarding President Joe Biden's National COVID-19 Strategy

Trinity Health is encouraged to see President Biden, on day two of his Administration, prioritize a coordinated, national response to the pandemic through the establishment of the National Strategy for the COVID-19 Response and Pandemic Preparedness. Trinity Health is pleased the national strategy includes a commitment to a transparent, efficient vaccination effort, expanded access to testing and supplies, an emphasis on clear public health standards like masking, and prioritizing equity. The national strategy recognizes that vaccine supply chain transparency—from manufacturing to administration—is critical to building public trust and expediting mass vaccination efforts. Trinity Health looks forward to working with the Biden Administration to break down supply chain barriers that have impeded access to vaccines. Together, we can defeat COVID-19 and advance the common good.
